Mr. Manzanares previously spearheaded Premium Seating and the Lobo Courtesy Car program for the Lobo Club. As the Director of Athletics at Highlands, he managed all aspects of their 14 athletics programs and 458 student-athletes. During his tenure there, he created the athletic department's first corporate sponsorship campaign, oversaw $2 million in facility improvements, and secured the largest one-time gift in NMHU Athletics history.

Mr. Manzanares received his bachelor's degree from UNM in Communication and Broadcast Journalism in 1995 and his Master's in Sports Business Administration from Highlands in 2010. He is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) and the Minority Opportunities Athletic Association (MOAA). Prior to becoming the Athletics Director, Mr. Manzanares was the Head Men's Basketball Coach at Highlands. When he received the job in 2000, he was the youngest head coach in the NCAA for Division II.
